Resiliency In The Moment: What's Your Favorite Childhood Story?

“It is in community that our stories are held up to the light of connection and we begin to see clearly how we are having a shared experience of being human with other humans...”

- Sonya Renee Taylor

Share Your Story

1. Create space this week to have a conversation with someone not on your team.
2. In your conversation share, "The title of my favorite childhood story is _____ and in one sentence here's why: _____. What is yours?"
3. Share an insight from the similarities and differences you see in your stories.

Folktales, storybooks, legends – stories from our childhood give insight into our personalities and our diverse backgrounds. Learning more about each other provides a sense of belonging by celebrating both our similarities and differences.
